

How Much Local Aid New York Would Receive From the Senate's Economic Stimulus Package

Aware of the dramatic budget shortfalls confronting states and localities, Senators Charles Schumer and Olympia Snowe first called for a comprehensive local aid package to states and local governments in January 2003. The Senate has now adopted this plan, adding a $20 billion aid provision to its economic stimulus package. The terms of the provision allocate $10 billion to help state and local governments with their Medicaid bills while also providing $10 billion in fiscal relief to stave off tax increases and cuts to key services like law enforcement, public safety and education.

The local aid provision would deliver as much as $2.2 billion to New York's State and local governments. For a county-by-county breakdown of how this funding would be allocated, please see the following report.
